in the problem of the idea of culture in john paul ii exposing the disruptive agency of the philosophy of karol wojtyla john corrigan provides a new lens with which to view and understand the philosophy of karol wojtyla john paul ii he exposes wojtyla as a major player in contemporary philosophical debates the work reformulates the problem of experience in light of the questions surrounding our idea of culture corrigan argues that for wojtyla the drama of the problem of experience manifests in the apparently divergent accounts of the meaning of human experience as presented by the philosophies of being and of consciousness solving this conundrum results in an idea of the person capable of explaining human experience in relation to human culture unfolding the experiences of self knowledge conscience and the ontic causal relationship of the person to human culture the first part of the book concerns formal considerations regarding the constitutive aspects of wojtyla s approach while the second part deals with pragmatic considerations drawn from his comments on culture the author gives a critical and comprehensive study of the fundamental problem of universals in indian philosophy the centre of the study is the controversy between the nyaya vaisesika and the mimamsa realists on the one hand and the buddhist nominalists on the other the author discusses not only the epistemological and metaphysical approach to the problem of universals but also the semantic approach made by the various systems of indian philosophy in this context the view of the grammarions with special reference to bhartrhari has been discussed in some detail a brief but critical analysis of some of the main trends of thought on universals in western philosophy beginning from plato to the contemporary philosophers has also been given besides his scholarly and eminently readable treatment of fundamental problem of universals the author has attempted to give his own solution of the problem it is based on the recurrent identities and similarities which are the principles of grouping and which form the foundation of our thought and speech presently the world is undergoing tremendous social cultural and economic transformation for sociologists the challenge is arriving at a sound mapping of this tumultuous world stage in this book the contributing authors consider solidarity as a cognitive problem of basic science they examine how solidarity is produced and reproduced how it is related to social processes and how such processes can be formalized and create conditions for productively studying their properties mathematical models and representations are presented by the authors as a coherent set of tools for understanding many social phenomena this book seeks to offer a general interpretation and critique of both methodological and substantive aspects of international theory the relationship between crime and community has a long history in criminological thought from the early notion of the criminogenic community developed by the chicago sociologists through to various crime prevention models in research and policy this book offers a useful theoretical overview of key approaches to the subject of crime and community and considers the ways in which these have been applied in more practical settings written by an expert in the field and drawing on a range of international case studies from europe north america australia and asia this book explores both why and how crime and community have been linked and the implications of their relationship within criminology and crime prevention policy topics covered in the book include the different crime prevention paradigms which have been utilised in the fight against crime the turn to community in crime prevention policy which took place during the 1980s in the uk and us and its subsequent development the particular theoretical and ideological underpinnings to crime prevention work in and with different communities the significance and impact of fear of crime on crime prevention policy different institutional responses to working with community in crime prevention and community safety the ways in which the experience of the uk and us have been translated into the european context a comparison between traditional western responses to the growing interest in restorative and community based approaches in other regions this book offers essential reading for students taking courses on crime and community crime prevention and community safety and community corrections
